SEN information report

September 2020

Code of Practice 6.79

'The governing bodies of maintained schools and maintained nursery schools and the proprietors of academy schools have a legal duty to publish information on their websites about the implementation of the governing body's or the proprietor's policy for pupils with SEN. The information published must be updated annually and any changes to the information occurring during the year must be updated as soon as possible. The information required is set out in the draft Special Educational Needs (Information) Regulations and reflects the information required for the local offer'.

Schools should ensure that the information is easily accessible by parents and is set out in clear, straightforward language. This should include information on the school's SEN policy, named contacts within the school where parents have concerns and details of the school's contribution to the local offer.

In setting out details of the broad and balanced curriculum provided in each year, schools should include details of how the curriculum is adapted or made accessible for pupils with SEN.

The Michael Syddall CE (Aided) School

SEN information report

September 2020

Please read alongside SEN Policy

This is what we provide in our school

This is North Yorkshire LA's minimum expectations of good practice

1 What kinds of SEN are provided for in your school?

We welcome all children to our school regardless of their needs. We will use our best endeavours to meet the needs of children with SEND. All needs are catered for in order to provide an inclusive education for all. At The Michael Syddall CE Primary School our aim is to inspire and challenge our pupils to achieve their best and achieve their full potential.

Children and young people (CYP) with a wide range of SEN are welcomed into the school. If a parent of a pupil with an EHCP requests a place at the school, the CYP is welcomed and strategies sought to meet needs.

2 What policies do you have for identifying children and young people with SEN? How do you assess their needs? What is the SENCo's name and how can I contact them?

We pride ourselves on our 'open door' policy. Parents and carers are encouraged to speak with their child's class teacher about any concerns they may have. They will be able to discuss any support your child is receiving. If you wish to discuss your child's needs further please contact the Headteacher/SENDCo Mrs Alison McHarg Tel: 01748 818485

Special Educational Needs and Disability (SEND) is a legal term. It describes the needs of a child who has a difficulty or disability which makes learning harder for them than other children of their age. Children are assessed regularly to ensure that they are making the expected progress. The class teacher is usually the first person to notice that the child needs extra help. If this is the case then they will ask for a meeting with the SENDCo to discuss strategies. If these strategies are not working and the gap is becoming significantly wider than their peers in any area then a discussion with parents/carers about the possibility of putting the child on the SEND register will take place.

Once a discussion has taken place, a final decision will be made by parents/carers, the class teacher and the SENDCo regarding the next appropriate steps. The class teacher and SENDCo will follow the Graduated Approach as outlined in the new Code of Practice: "Assess, Plan, Do, Review." An Individual provision map (IPM) will be written with specific targets and strategies to help your child make progress. There will be meetings to discuss the progress of the targets. This will be arranged by the class teacher. Sometimes children may not make progress despite receiving additional support in school and from external agencies. In consultation with parents and other agencies, the school may decide to request additional support to help meet a child's additional needs. A request for an Education, Health and Care Plan (EHCP) may be made if parents and professionals supporting a child feel that the young person's needs cannot be provided from within the resources normally available to mainstream schools. An EHCP assessment will not always lead to an EHCP

The name and contact number of the SENCo should be readily available for parents. The school will have a clear policy about how they identify children as having SEND following the guidance in Chapter 6 of the SEN Code of Practice 2015. The school will have clear criteria and procedures about how to assess the needs of your child using the 4 areas of need as outlined in the SEN Code of practice.

3 What arrangements do you have for consulting with parents of children with SEN and involving them in their child's education?

Regular contact with parents is vital for our children with SEND. All staff listen to what parents have to say and respond to and act upon any concerns they may have. The school communicates with parents regularly throughout the year through:

- Parents evening three times a year
- Meetings with parents to discuss IPM targets/Review meetings with parents
- Informal meetings/discussions with parents/carers
- Meetings at request of parents

For some children, regular communication takes place on a daily basis through the use of a home/school book or contact with the class teacher before or after school. In addition to this we will give information to parents about how to support their child at home.

Pupils and parents are informed of the service provided by SENDIASS.

<http://m.northyorks.gov.uk/CHttpHandler.ashx?id=29849&p=0>

The team of SENDIASS co-ordinators are qualified and experienced in special educational needs, and are based at the locations across the county - for details, please see the SENDIASS contact information [10kb]. Schools communicate regularly with parents, usually once a term, to discuss how well their child is doing. They listen to what parents have to say and respond to it. For pupils with SEND it is often desirable that there is more frequent communication as it is vital that parents and school work together closely. Your knowledge and understanding of your child's needs is essential to support the school in making the best provision for them. This should also take account of your and your child's hopes, personal goals and interests.

This will allow the school to regularly explain to you where your child is in their learning, and to work with you to ensure the most appropriate targets are set to ensure progress.

On-going communication with school may include:

- regular contact through a home-school book or by e-mail to keep you informed of things that are going well or particular successes
- more regular meetings to update you on your child's progress and whether the support is working
- clear information about the impact of any interventions
- guidance for you to support your child's learning at home.
- a clear date to review the SEN support plans

4. What arrangements do you have in place in your school to consult with young people with SEN and how do you involve them in their education?

The children are consulted in a variety of ways to gain pupil voice. We ask all children for their views on topics they have done in class and after school clubs. Various other things to do with school life are discussed through school and class councils and circle time activities. All pupils with SEND are included in discussions about their learning and target setting (where appropriate). Their views will be heard and this is a good opportunity for them to discuss things that help them in school as well as things that might not help. Their views are recorded on the IPMs. Reviews of IPMs follow a pupil centred format.	School will obtain the views of all children (pupil voice) to shape provision in school. Your child's school may have a school council. They should be able to explain how the voice of pupils with SEN are represented on this council. In addition, it is vital that the views and aspirations of children and young people with SEN are listened to and they are supported to achieve their aspirations as far as possible. You school will be able to describe how this is undertaken and the frequency with which the child is consulted.
5. What arrangements are in place for assessing and reviewing children and young people's progress towards outcomes. Please can you explain what opportunities are available to enable you to work with parents and young people as part of this assessment and review
All children should make the expected progress in a year. Some children may need additional and different support in order to achieve this. Even with additional support some children may not fully meet these expectations but will still make progress. They are assessed regularly throughout the year in order to monitor the progress that they are making according to their individual starting points. Monitoring of progress towards identified outcomes will be undertaken by all the adults involved with the provision. Progress will be reviewed on an on-going basis and records/notes kept in the class SEN folders on Individual Provision Maps (IPMs) and by the end of Summer term 2016, Inclusion Passports. IPMs and Inclusion Passports are used to communicate the provision and progress of children with SEND when accessing support from external services or when a child is going through a period of transition from or to another school. IPMs are used to highlight targets and areas for development and outline strategies that will be used to help. For pupils with an IPM, a pupil centred review will be held with parents at least termly. In order to gain a full picture of the child we encourage parents to share achievements outside of school and for the child to share what they enjoy about school and what they think they're good at.	All pupils with SEND should make at least expected progress, in line with their peers. Your school will be able to explain how it will be monitoring your child's progress to ensure that it is at least in line with expectations. This will usually include progress made with personal targets, and overall progress on the National Curriculum. Many schools use inclusion passports. This is a document that summarises the support that has been given to a pupil over a period of time, and the difference that this support has made. You may like to ask your child's school whether an inclusion passport would be useful for you and your child. Your child may well have their own version which they can share with staff and which can help to explain their interests and things that help them learn and to enjoy school. Where the school feels that something additional or different is needed to support your child because they have SEND they will discuss this carefully with you. This information may well be recorded in a document for you and your child, known as an individual provision map, an individual education plan or an SEN support plan. This should include:- <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • details of any strategies being used to support your child in class • the adjustments or approaches being made to teaching in class • details of any extra support or interventions for your child • your child's learning targets and their long term desired outcomes • the next date when your child's progress will be reviewed. Most pupils will benefit from SEN support, but some pupils who need high levels of support, or who have complex needs will need to be referred for an education, health and care plan assessment (EHCAR).

6. What are the arrangements for supporting children and young people in moving between phases of education and in preparing for adulthood? How do you ensure that as young people prepare for adulthood the desirable outcomes reflect their ambitions, which could include higher education, employment, independent living and participation in society

Transition is very well planned for all children. We hold a meeting with the Secondary schools in the area to discuss individual children and their needs. There is also a document called the inclusion passport that is completed when appropriate and passed on to the next school. This documents all the interventions that have happened in primary school along with other information such as interests, levels and recent achievements.

Where possible, children with SEND will also have extra visits to their new setting in order for them to become familiar with the routines of the day. Once the secondary school place has been confirmed then a meeting will be set up with parents, the current school SENDCo and the SENDCo from the secondary school to discuss how the transition for the child will take place to ensure a smooth and relaxed change occurs.

Your SENCo should arrange an appropriate transition review in plenty of time before any move. Staff from the receiving school should be invited to attend. Transition meetings and visits should be arranged for the pupil or student, often accompanied by a well-known member of staff. The pupil should receive as much transition work as they feel necessary in order to make a successful transition.

7. What is your School's approach to teaching children and young people with SEN?

All staff at Michael Syddall are committed to providing quality first teaching so that all children can make good progress with their learning. Lessons are differentiated to meet the needs of all children and are delivered by the class teacher in an ordinary classroom setting. Specific strategies (which may be suggested by the SENDCo or outside staff) are in place to help your child learn.

The class teacher will carefully check your child's progress and if he/she feels that there are gaps in their understanding/learning extra support will be provided to help them make the best possible progress. All children are entitled to this as a part of excellent classroom practice.

We offer a wide variety of evidence based interventions to support the needs of all children. Interventions are carefully monitored in order to ensure that they have an impact on children's learning. Staff receive regular training and support provided by a number of different agencies. All interventions are recorded on an Intervention map each term. These Intervention records outline the purpose of the intervention and an evaluation of the intervention to ensure that the impact is clear and the next steps can be easily identified.

High quality teaching and support for learning within mainstream lessons is the most important factor in helping pupils with SEND to make good progress alongside their peers. There may be occasions when the school feels that some additional support within lessons may help your child to make better progress. This is by no means always the case. However, if some additional small group or one to one support within lessons is planned, the school will explain how this will work, what the aims of this support will be and how and when the impact of this support will be reviewed. Most importantly, this support should be aiming to make your child more independent in lessons.

Schools use a range of evidence based interventions to support pupils with SEND to make better progress. Interventions are structured learning programmes. Your school will be able to explain to you:

- what interventions your child is receiving and what are the intended learning outcomes;
- when during the week any interventions will be delivered and for how many weeks;
- who will be delivering the interventions (usually a well-trained teaching assistant) and where (e.g. in class or outside the classroom)
- how the interventions will relate to and support learning in the classroom;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • how they will be monitored closely to make sure they are helping your child to make accelerated progress.
8. What sort of adaptations are made to the curriculum and the learning environment of children and young people with SEN?
We believe that all teachers are teachers of SEND. We will make effective changes to our broad and balanced curriculum and learning environment to ensure that all children are able to achieve their full potential. All staff have high expectations of all children and will put relevant adaptations in place to ensure they achieve this. Further adaptations could be necessary for more specific needs such as partially sighted children, children with mobility issues and hearing impaired children. These are specific to individual children and will be addressed accordingly. Risk assessments are in place for children who require them.	Your school will be able to describe some of the approaches that classroom teachers and other staff will be using throughout the day to help address your child's needs within lessons. They may also be able to share with you the school's overall plan of support (provision map), which outlines many of these strategies. Some children with a high level of need will also need a care plan or a health care plan which may include a risk assessment.
9. What sort of expertise for supporting children and young people with SEN do you currently have in school? How do you ensure that the expertise and training of staff to support children and young people with SEN is current? How do you access and secure further specialist expertise?
Staff who deliver focused interventions have all had the necessary training. As a whole school, we have refresher training for all the different areas of need. All our staff are highly trained and they are observed delivering the interventions. In doing this we can ensure that all the staff are consistent in their approach. Any staff who feel they need more training in a specific area have the opportunity to attend relevant training sessions. Our SENDCo attends County and Swaledale Alliance Network meetings and liaises with other SENDCos in the area regularly. In addition to this we have highly qualified staff working in our EMS and from September 2020 advice and support will be available from the local SEND Hubs.	All staff should receive regular training to enable them to meet a range of SEN. Teachers and teaching assistants should have regular generic training and specific training to meet individual needs as necessary. Schools must make good use of their SEN funding to meet a range of need. However, if a pupil has particular needs and the school has exhausted its repertoire, specialist support should be sought promptly. The SENCo will have the National Award for Special Educational Needs (NASENCo) or be working towards achieving this within 3 years of their appointment as SENCo.
10. How do you evaluate the effectiveness of the provision made for children and young people with SEN?
Progress of children with SEND is monitored through pupil progress meetings, analysis of the data, teacher reports on progress of SEND pupils and intervention records. Individual provision maps are kept for all children with SEND. These are reviewed every term to ensure that the provision is having an impact. Quality first teaching will be evaluated every half term through teacher observations and monitoring. Provision for SEND is also evaluated for effectiveness.	The progress and attainment of all children is carefully monitored and reported to parents. Your school will be able to explain how they track pupil progress in their school. If a child is provided with additional and different provision/interventions, the school will carefully monitor the impact by a variety of methods; such as: measuring how the intervention accelerated progress over a given time – known as a ratio gain or the before and after impact on self-confidence, behaviour etc. During the planning meeting with parents and where possible the child or young person, the teacher will explain what the expected impact will be by the time the intervention is reviewed and how this will be measured. Many schools use Individual Provision Maps (IPMs) or My Support plan

	to capture this information, which is written during your meeting. This meeting with you and your child is often described as a 'learning conversation'. The school will evaluate the impact of all interventions and whether they have a strong evidence base of effectiveness. Other provision, for example provision regularly used in-class (known as High Quality Teaching), will be evaluated regularly by the Senior Leadership Team. Your school will be able to describe how this is undertaken.
11. How are children and young people with SEN enabled to engage in activities available with children and young people in the school who do not have SEN?
All of our children with SEND have the same opportunities as everybody else in school. Provision is made for all children to take part in extra-curricular activities, trips, school productions and sporting events. We pride ourselves with the provision we make to ensure children with SEND can take part in everything we have to offer. Children with SEND have positions of responsibility in school such as School council, House captains, Vice-captains, Playground leaders and buddies. In their own class, children have opportunities to be class monitors to help with the day to day running of an effective and caring classroom.	The school's policies should all state how all pupils are actively included in a wide range of curriculum and extra-curricular activities, including school trips. Pupils with SEN should be equally represented in positions of responsibility e.g. the school council.
12. How do you support children and young people with SEN to improve their emotional and social development? Please explain the extra pastoral support arrangements for listening to the views of children and young people with SEN and measures to prevent bullying.
At The Michael Syddall School we support children emotionally in a variety of ways. All children participate in PSHCE/SEAL lessons and circle time activities, as well as whole school assemblies which tackle issues such as relationships, bullying etc. On occasions, children may need additional emotional well-being support and all teachers feel confident to provide a more personalised strategy. Our children all have the opportunity to share their feelings with a member of staff that they feel comfortable with. Our Christian ethos is evident in all that we do at The Michael Syddall CofE VA School. Pupils are recognised as individuals, they need to be listened to, feel included and we have the responsibility to ensure their personal well being and learning needs are met fully to allow them to achieve the very best they can. This is reflected in our Mission Statement: Michael Syddall CofE Aided School is a learning community within which everyone can flourish and children are equipped to step into their future with hope, courage and perseverance. Our community is built upon the values of respect, kindness, trust, forgiveness and friendship. Inspired by the Christian Faith, we encourage everyone to embrace life in all its fullness.	Some of the interventions implemented should be for emotional support e.g. SEAL nurture groups, the provision of a key worker. The school's anti bully policy should be available for you to read and they will be able to describe how they listen to and support pupils with social and emotional needs
13. How does the School involve other bodies, including health and social care bodies, local authority support services and voluntary sector organisations, in meeting children and young people’s SEN and supporting their families?

The school has access to a wide range of professionals and outside agencies The Local Authority offers a range of specialist support and outreach that we can contact for further support and advice. If we feel that outside agency input would benefit your child then we will have a meeting in school to discuss this with you. Parental permission is always sought before involving anyone from outside of school.

We have access to:

- Speech and language therapists
- Educational Psychologists
- Early Help (parent support, SENDIASS)
- Local Hubs for specific learning difficulties (cognition and learning),communication and interaction difficulties and social, emotional and mental health conditions.
- Specialist teachers for hearing and visually impaired children
- Social care
- Children in care workers (CiC)

The Local Authority offers a range of specialist support and outreach services, including educational psychologists and local enhanced mainstream schools, to help schools to deliver appropriate support and interventions, Other specialists such as speech and language therapists can also support schools in this. If the school feels that the involvement of another agency will help them to meet your child’s needs you will be informed and asked to give your consent.

14. What are the arrangements for handling complaints from parents of children with SEN about the provision made at the school?

If you are not satisfied with the provision made for your child in school regarding SEND your first point of contact should be the class teacher or SENDCo. Explain your worries or concerns to them first. If you are not satisfied that your concern has been addressed, speak to the Head Teacher. If this is not satisfactory please contact Mr R Knowles who is the Chair of Governors, he can be contacted through the school office.

Finally, if you do not feel that the issues have been resolved then you will need to follow our formal complaints procedure as outlined in the Complaints procedure policy.

There must be a designated governor for SEN in the school and complaints about SEN should follow the general complaints procedure. It is always best to approach the teacher or the Headteacher first, to see if your concerns can be immediately addressed. If you still feel that your view has not been listened to or answered to your satisfaction you can make a formal complaint by writing to the chair of governors at the school.
